

SEBASTIAN SPERING KRESGE

1867 - 1966

Sebastian Spering Kresge was born of Pennsylvania Dutch parentage on a farm in Bald Mount, Pennsylvania. As a child he attended country school and Fairview Academy. In 1886, he attended Polytechnic Institute and taught school in the winter for $22 a month. The next summer he was a farm hand on his parents' land and, in the winter, a grocery clerk earning $28 to $40 a month.

In 1888, Mr. Kresge took a commercial course at Eastman Business College. From 1889 to 1897 he held diverse jobs. He was employed in a wholesale produce business, sold industrial insurance, canvassed, sold house furnishings, had half interest in a bakery, and was a bookkeeper for a hardware company. As a traveling tinware salesman, he saved $8,000 to invest in business.
